HEADMISTRESS'S NOTE

This was the year some of you will remember being interviewed on a building site, by a Headmistress and Vice-Principal wearing hard hats and construction boots. I can only hope that as the year unfolded for you, life at Elmwood was quieter and cleaner than your first impressions!

This was, above all else, a year of development for the school. In June 1983, the last kilted figure had scarcely wheeled her bicycle out of the old parking lot when the bulldozers moved in and construction began on the largest expansion project Elmwood has seen since the school was founded.

Residents of Rockcliffe Park watched all summer with bated breath to see if we would be ready to open in September - and we almost made it. Grades 7 & 8 spent two weeks at St. Columba's Church while the staff showed great inventiveness and initiative in running their programme out of what became known as "the branch office". We were all very happy to be reunited, and to share the pleasures of new labs, libraries and classrooms.

Almost a year later, we can hardly remember how cramped we were before the renovations were completed. For those of us who have been involved throughout the planning and implementation stages of the construction, the most satisfying aspect has been the reaction from many past and present Elmwood students and parents. "It's as if it has always been here."

MRS. GUNDY

Being Vice-Principal at Elmwood involves having one foot planted firmly in the past, another planted firmly in the present and the third foot planted firmly in the future. This requires, and at the same time, illustrates the basic nature of the position - co-ordination.

Since co-ordination is to a rather large extent a biological phenomenon, it is probably just as well that I spend a good deal of my energy maintaining the momentum of the two lively Biology courses at the upper end of the Senior School. That done, much of the remaining time is spent in co-ordinating the maintenance of the academic records, the requirements of the Elmwood Board and the Ontario Ministry of Education.

On a day to day basis, attendance and the building must be monitored. Some students may require advice, assistance with options, or need some help in obtaining further guidance. As well there is the ongoing task of co-ordinating Elmwood's growing participation in the International Baccalaureate programme.

Students may require assistance with university applications, or letters from an academic referee. Timetables for, and the administration of, examination sessions must be dealt with. The course booklet, the timetable and the use of the facilities in the next academic year, all take up a portion of my "future" time.

Fortunately, much of the above involves co-ordinating the co-operative efforts of Elmwood's staff and students.

Having three hands as well as three feet helps!

MRS. CHANCE

Space - glorious space! With three beautiful bright, new, classrooms and a splendid new science laboratory, the junior school, like spring, is "bustin' out all over." And to celebrate, in February grade seven demonstrated their skills in a science fair, judged by four outside scientists and enjoyed by students and parents.

Grade six had a three day outdoor education experience at Brown Lake in February. In May grade seven will investigate nature at Foley Mountain, and history in Kingston. Quebec City is once more on the itinerary for grade eight.

Please don't think that the "junior Juniors" are neglected - their outings, though day trips only, have been numerous. With the additional grade six, the junior school is made up of nine bustling classrooms. It has been a most productive year.

MAUREEN ASSALY

Maureen can easily be referred to as the veteran Elmwoodian of Grade Thirteen as she came to our hallowed halls in Grade Two! She is well known for her punctuality - you can always count on an 8:40 arrival or maybe even an exact 8:45 squeaker. Also, with every lunch bag a surprise of sliced carrots and cucumbers. The clarinet was played effortlessly by Maureen for the school band, the tennis team was her favourite activity but we must not forget her participation in the "Knots Landing" discussion group within the Grade Thirteen Common Room. Often after the March Break a noticeable tan returns with Maureen as a reminder of Casablanca, Jamaica or Brazil. This year you could see Moe driving off into the sunset in her blue Saab. Throughout her many years at Elmwood Maureen was always friendly and ready to listen. Take care and best of luck in your studies with Early Childhood Education at Algonquin.

TERESA BASINSKI

Teresa joined the Elmwood Gang in grade ten. For the first while Teresa "seemed" quite studious and reserved with a passion for "Romance" novels. However, that was soon to change so that by grade eleven Teresa had been totally converted into the craziness that is distinctly Elmwood's. Teresa will be remembered for her concern, for her solidarity, her addiction to TAB, her valiant effort as a chapel monitor and her love for Perrier or is it Perry, eh?

As Elmwood's resident history buff, Teresa was a member of our Reach for the Top and Student Commonwealth Conference teams. Her incredible knowledge of dates and world affairs helped Elmwood make credible showings in both instances. Teresa was asked to be a representative of the Ottawa All-Star team that represented the region against a team from Lahr, West Germany. When not correcting History Textbooks Teresa was actively involved in Drama for three years. It is not often one meets someone like Teresa, she's a real friend, we'll miss you, GOOD LUCK in whatever you do.

ELISE BRAITHWAITE

Elise has been at Elmwood since Grade Eight and has survived all the way through to Grade Thirteen. Known for her great running ability she has been a longstanding and successful member of the Elmwood Track Team and has also competed individually with great results. A member of the infamous I0-J she actively took part in kilt-snatching, water fights and the great TALENT SHOW. In grade twelve she was a member of the pound committee (better known as the "anyone seen the key" club). Elise will always be remembered for her "Somewhere over the rainbow" and lunchtime assessments, "Chicken Soup? Yuck, its full of monosodium glutamate" Her ease with languages, "I know judo, Karate and all those oriental words." and "I'm a student from St. Donut." We'll never forget you Elise, so Good Luck in the future and we may someday see an Elmwood alumnus on the Olympic podium.

CAROLYN CLENDENNING

"Fish" can frequently be found standing at the top of Cote Vavier waiting for a "friend" . . . Zowie isn't it? One of this "Welch" girl's other exotic hobbies includes a certain male of recent German descent, though it is still to be seen whether HIS hobbies begin with the letter "C" OR "L"! In any case, Carolyn would like to thank Mrs. Heacock, Mrs. Doetsch, and especially Ms. Johnston for all their help. We hope that C.H. takes care, and that we can catch her in the Louvre in the future. With much love, and best don't-beat-me-up wishes,
Helene ("Hen") and Janie.

JENNIFER CONNOLLY

"Jenni" arrived in a dizzy whirlwind in the middle of Grade 12 - keen and eager to learn. Back then, nothing could quench her thirst for knowledge, not even her rendez-vous at Pinto. Since then Jen-Jen has enjoyed a wild and varied life-style. She can often be seen pulling up to school on Saturday (with band-aids on finger-tips) or jogging to Philosophy for a deep discussion on rabbits, shrews, and other party animals. She hopes to continue her studies as a connoisseur of fine Spanish wines. When Jennifer is not in church, she can be found in the kitchen baking brownies for orphans. GOOD LUCK BOOMBIE!

SHEILA CONNOLLY

Sheila came to Elmwood in September. We haven't seen her since but she has promised an appearance at the formal. Sheila will be remembered most for her less than conservative hairstyle and her drumming talent at Elmwood's best dance. If Sheila can't be seen at school, try looking for her in Carp, fast asleep, "waiting for Jennifer to warm up the car." Sheila's "with it" hairstyle has caused a sensation among the Elmwood juniors. She has earned their admiration through wearing leather, having a "neat" haircut and becoming a member of the "Delf and Charles" Fan Club. The juniors and seniors will miss you, and so will the teachers.

KATIE DICK

Katie first appeared at Elmwood, fully freckled, in grade seven. Since then, though no less freckled, she has never let us forget her presence through smiles, tears and laughter: quiet but deadly. Katie always excelled at academic and social studies and this year surprised everyone, including herself, by joining the athletic rowing team. She contributed largely to the school yearbook in grade twelve as Advertising Editor, and soon helped to assume the roles of co-ordinator, co-editor, and co-coffee maker. A conscientious prefect, she assumed her duties with characteristic good humour and good jokes. Katie, have you driven a Ford lately? Next year Katie plans to study at McGill, and hopes to pursue law, happiness, her key and law students. You've come a long way, baby. Congratulations Desperado.

"Though it's past now,
And the words start to fade,
All the memories I have,
Still remain."

PAULA GILBERT

Paula has been extremely active in all aspects of School Life and was always willing to help anyone with any "little" problem. Ever since her arrival at Elmwood in Grade Seven, she has been a sports fanatic and a member of every sports team with the exception of rowing which clashed with two other sports. We have all winced at her lack of concern for her personal safety, "It's a bird . . . it's a plane . . . no it's Paula diving for the ball!!" After school she could be seen clad in an Elmwood track suit and running shoes, ready to "hit" the streets of Rockcliffe Park for the greater glory of Elmwood. In her years at Elmwood Paula has been the school's Sports Captain, the Sports Editor for Samara, Head of the Sui Sang Club, and now the Prefect in charge of Nightingale. She plans to go on in Physical Education and Psychology at Ottawa University. Is that where Chris de Burgh is studying, Paula?!

CYNTHIA HUGHES

Cynthia came to us BOMP BOMP PSH PSH (in her preppy way from Toronta in grade 12.) Since then the school has benefited from her humor, her academic achievements and her sports "presence". Her superior talents as an overall athlete made an impact on all the games she participated in. Her natural ways and quiet leadership abilities, as demonstrated by her election as Senior Prefect, have brought her both immediate popularity and lifelong friendships. Her love for "MENALONI" and GUITO SCELIZZI drove her to "twisting by the pool", but Coca-Cola will always be NUMERO UNO with her. She will always be remembered for her "moving" mess in the corner. We saw the true Cynth come out at St. Donat when WE GOT THE BEAT in broomball and dieting. Best of luck in your future lives . . . the one commodity you will probably never need.

MARION JONES

Marion has been terrorizing Elmwood since Grade Five (nine long years!) and is one of the few survivors to make it to Grade Thirteen. Marion is notorious for her recent globetrotting with or without horses. Contrary to popular belief, Marion is not really a science person, and has been known to blow up the lab on more than one occasion. Through the years, Marion has made her mark with the Drama Club, the Commonwealth Conference and various sports clubs. As any victim of Grade Thirteen "Fizzyx" could testify, her sudden outbursts of Monty Python's ANNE Elk, managed to bring us out of our comas. Marion plans to move up in the world and study Commerce at Trinity next year.

JANE LAWSON

A note from Chris & Fiona: Janie has returned! When asked why, she replied; "Wookey-fine, with a 'w'". Zoot (saxophone enthusiast), wishes to major in Huggology at Queen's (to avoid fracturing ribs) Janie's patent of the 'monosodium glutamate soup glove' will soon be as popular as the commonroom ghettoblaster. A note from Janie: Bissy: Tahiti to ya! Fiona: Special thanks for one-way streets, 40¢ meals and skillful vacuuming! Cool runnings dreadlocks . . . More time Fi!"

Following a visit, one is obliged to write a "bread and butter" letter. It says: Thank you for the nice stay, nice hospitality, and nice company. If one has REALLY enjoyed their visit, one might say: You have a nice home. Dear Elmwood, Thank you for the nice stay, nice hospitality, and nice company. Sincerely, Janie Lawson P.S. You have a nice home. Domini pax vobiscum.

CHRISTINE KELLY

Chris enjoys her daily intake of sunflower seeds and she has been SO enthusiastic about becoming a "slave to her body" that she's rarely seen in the common room. (Rain or shine) Her journeys to the big T.O. have brought us memorable moments (the language teacher . . .) the never-ending repetitions of "wanna go for a coffee?" "Oh, don't worry I have money," have inspired us to create the perfect "Irish" coffee. Chris's faithful devotion to Functions and the Losers' Club, has impressed all who dropped the course. SPEECH! SPEECH!

Well, what can I say. H.R. and S.W. Remember the ducks, only when feeling down, of course. F.S. - Spuds forever! H.L.: thanks for keeping my sanity, can I have it back now? J.L.: I'll meet you when "I'm old and wise". Most of all to my friends, just remember "It's a matter of life and death".

Love you - the Crisco Kid.

"When I can look life in the eye grown calm and coldly wise, life will have given me the truth, and taken in exchange my youth." Teasdale

SUSAN LEGGET

Susan joined Elmwood in grade 11 from New Brunswick. She will always remember being locked in the chapel at Ashbury with Yurie and Eldita. She was an original member of Wilson, and in grade twelve she was never seen without a camera in her trivial pursuits for the greater glory of Samara. We'll always remember her sleepy smile and ironic comments. Music, Math (à la James), Computer Science, and History are among the courses she'll never forget. Next year, Susan will continue her education with that unique flair that we'll sorely miss. Later, Sue!

HÈLÈNE LEBLANC

On the eve of February 19, 1964 a strange noise was heard in Kingston General Hospital: midway between a hiccup and a wheeze it wouldn't stop. It still hasn't stopped and after seven months with Hélène we're just beginning to get used to her so-called "laugh". Her sense of humour in functions, economics, art, and english has helped make this year a little more bearable. Next year it's to Trent for a major in "cute guys", parties and more. Fish and the Crisco Kid plan to join her there. Watch out Trent! Lots of love and best wishes from Fiona Begonia, Laurel, Fish, the Crisco Kid, Anthony, Anna Banana and Janietor-in-a-drum. P.S. Hélène, you are officially dubbed Squid (remember it's a delicacy in some societies).

HEATHER MCCORMACK

Heather started this year by being voted head of Wilson House, of which she was an original member. Those of us who have attended Heather's parties can testify to her great leadership qualities. An honorary citizen of Bancroft, she spends her free time there, that is, when she's not attacking hockey players. Heather has made Elmwood history by dropping and taking chemistry at the same time. A definite asset to the Grade 13 common room, she never (?) goes "beyond the limit". Good luck in your future, healing the sick. May you always enjoy the scenery.

LISA OSTIGUY

Lisa first appeared "out" of uniform in grade nine. Since then the variations have been endless. This epitome of the "perfect prefect" (?) has been a source of constant amusement in the grade thirteen common room. Her rambunctious enthusiasm has been somewhat infectious and her excitement is always contagious (a tad more pleasant than the common cold). She will always be remembered for her participation in anything and everything, including basketball, cross country running, gymnastics, (we said participation), track, music (radio city music hall here she comes) . . . the list goes on. Most of all, Lisa has been appreciated for her EXTREMELY vocal support of Elmwood over the years. We mustn't forget menalon, the love of Brian (and others), 10-J form room, kilt snatching, guppie power and "kiss". Best of luck next year in your pursuit of recreology and LEISURELY studies.

SHEILA REID

Sheila has graced Elmwood with her presence since grade five, a long nine years. Although once known for her mini-skirts, Sheila has now adopted a decidedly prepped-out style. A long-time member of the track team, she can be seen running at various school meets. Sheila (or Squeak, as some may know her) has had a rather hectic year, as head of the Formal Committee. A generally calm (!?) person, Sheila has been known to succumb to fits of hysteria when trying to organize these social events. She has spent many hours in the art room developing her talents, and was the only person insane enough to attempt I.B. Art! Sheila plans to study Psychology at Queen's next year. Best of luck in the future!

SARAH PEAT

Jelli-Belli has been a spirited active member of the Elmwood community for five years. She will be remembered for years to come for her accomplishments in cross country running, earning her the name of "Fleet Feet Peat"! Sarah's involvement in Drama has definitely been a great bonus to the "Elmwood Theatre Co." Sarah delivered memorable performances as Hazel and Edward. She can usually be spotted chasing Duran Duran, Bruce, Rebel Rebel, and other celebrated personalities into their hotel rooms. However, if you can't find her there, she's sure to be in Mrs. White's office with the other prefects or stealing brownies from orphans. By the way, Iggy's only 5 foot 2!

ANNE ROGERS

Anne joined the Elmwood crew for the first time from grades 7 through 10. After three adventurous years in a public high school, she decided to come back to Elmwood for grade 13. Being a talented girl, she contributed greatly to the rowing and cross-country teams. Rapidly she became well-known among our "blond peers" down the street! With some "special help" she managed to forfeit her position as chairperson of the Functions and Calculus "Loser's Club"! Her future promises many surprises, as she is planning to study Business and "Men"agement at Queen's next fall! Hasta la Vista, Anne.

HEATHER ROGERS

Heather has successfully rebelled her way from grade 8 right through to graduation in her own uniquely radical fashion. Wowing students at Elmwood and Ashbury alike with her flashy smile and infinite source of cheer and energy. Never will such a "bouncy" house head be able to equal Heather's enthusiasm. If she is not faithfully chanting "Fry rules" or "Everyday is Fry day" she can be seen setting up guppy farms or cutting the grass. Heather boasts many talents: singing, acting, sports, sports and sports . . . and of course academics. Here's to a truly outstanding Elmwoodian, we all wish you the best of luck for the future! Theme song: "Poker blur" by Prefects and "The checkered table cloth"

FIONA SABISTON

Fiona Begonia being of mixed heritage, hails from none other than Arveda, the land of the dreadlocks and the pubs in spudland! (Quebec, Jamaica, Ireland) This explains to the "common man" her profound tales of a certain Nigel-brain haired letter-writer. Heere's Fiona: My unexpected year at Elmwood has been an EXPERIENCE! Sue otherwise known as "BESTEST ESTEST ROOMIE OF THE YEAR" - I doubt I shall forget our discussions of Arvida days and the people, the complaints after a hard day's work (Ha) and of course, your famous sayings: "What would you do without me?", "Isn't he gorgeous?" (Bowie), "Is there any food in this house?", and "Party people of the world unite!" Sue - here's to Quebec next year - McGill or Concordia - RIGHT ON SCOOB!

LORI SCHROEDER

The "Bag Lady" can be seen periodically dragging bags of books in one hand and clutching a kiwi in the other. We all hope that (for the benefit of future Elmwoodians), Lori-Pori will re-design the Elmwood uniform, when she makes it big in New York. Forseen amendments include the stand-up collar and the addition of tartan scarves! In addition, we do hope that she lowers the price of yougurt at the Almonte IGA from 2/88¢ to 2/66¢.

Best of luck, and as your "stride" towards future endeavours, be sure not to trip over "walk"man extention cords. With love from, Janie, Helene, and Elise. P.S. Sorry for not "knowing you". JKL

SARAH THORPE

Sarah came to Elmwood in grade nine and was an immediate member of the "A" team. When one first meets Sarah, one thinks of her as being quiet and reserved - but spending a year in the common room with her you learn so very differently. Sarah is a math wiz and one might say that she's "good with figures". Sarah will be remembered for her love of Remington Steele, Scarecrow and Paul Young. Sarah's brilliance helped the Reach for the Top team and she placed well for Elmwood in many math contests. Besides her scholastic ability, Sarah is a real friend, and adds a lot to the common room atmosphere. We'll miss you. Best of Luck in your future years.

ROSEMARY TODD

Head Girl, Sports Captain, team leadership along with the perpetual enthusiasm and school spirit are but a few of Rosemary's more noticeable achievements. Princess Rose is famous for her orange Lada, her love of Coke, her howling, her honorary memberships in the Kiss and Grease Fan Clubs, her "off-white" jokes, her parlering français, her interpretation of the Functions course, and her emotion. Here's to Burger King, Menalon's, extended lunch hours and the joys of jockettehood. Rosemary has contributed to all aspects of Elmwoodian life since her arrival way back in Grade Nine. Everyone will agree that Rosemary has left her mark all over the school. Good luck and may your passion for sports never cease even at 42. Maybe someday we'll get that gym - Princess.

LUCI TOUSIGNANT

Luci arrived on our doorstep this year from a booming metropolis of Hawkesbury! She was a friendly, boisterous, and very welcome addition to our class. Her infectious smile and contagious laughter immediately made her a very popular disease. Though a new girl, she threw herself into school involvement by joining the rowing team, hostessing the drama festival, and being an avid supporter of every social function. This year was marked by diets, Desserts, sunny days in the park, PP, and getting her hands on Reese's pieces! Next year Luci plans to study International Relations at McGill. She's so french! Bonne chance, ma belle!

ELIZABETH WESTLEY

Liz has impressed us over the years with her studious habits and brilliant results, culminating this year when she received the Governor General's Award for Academic Excellence. She was a vital part of the Formal Committee in keeping us sane by being her efficient and organized self. We know you'll succeed in whatever you do, good luck - we'll see you when you receive your Nobel Prize for Science!!!

KALLI VARAKLIS

Kal appeared miraculously in our midst in Grade 8, much to her displeasure but definitely to our delight! Despite initial reservations, Kalli has easily endured six years at Elmwood, and has always demonstrated unending spirit and participation. She formed the Greek minority, was a member of Drama, editor of Samara, and Head of Keller House. She teaches piano and played each morning in prayers, winning our admiration. Kal will be remembered as Aunt Jemima, and for unforgettable, colourful and often profound sayings. She will always remember 19 red balloons, a Costa Rican, Danny's, A1, A2 and singing sessions. Kalli will study Anatomy and Histology at McGill, and is looking forward to having a key to her own place. We like you Tim!

"There's a lot of people leaving town now, leaving their friends, their homes, At night they walk that dark and dusty highway all alone, So say goodbye, it's Independence Day."

SUSAN WIGGINS

"Suzette", the French Connection, landed in Elmwood three years ago, a quiet country girl from Shoe-coo-too-mee. Within months she had mastered the English language. Sue is known for her sense of humour, rosy cheeks and her frequent hair appointments (right Simon?). Sue has been an active member of The Elmwood Theatre Company - "let there be light". We're sure you'll miss the good times - the Hinnell's, Dave Birk, Bob and the Burns, and above all, your Bowie corner at the Browns. Sue hopes to continue her musical studies majoring in Tuba tooting. Good luck in your studies Sue, remember us, FF - let me tell you ...

TATJANA WODRICH

Tatjana long-jumped her way from Germany to join Elmwood's student body in Grade 11. She was a member of Nightingale and the track and field team. In track, she ran the 800m, 200m, and the long jump. Many people will miss Tatjana's reserved, sophisticated manner. I'm sure she'll never forget History 5A and Math 4G. Next year, Tatjana plans to return to Germany and go into the airline business.

ANNA YUEN

Anna joined us this year for the first time. Why she left her boyfriend in Hong Kong, we may never know! No one has ever seen her angry or sad, in fact we don't think she is ever without her smile. We want to thank Anna Banana for teaching us fancy Chinese signatures and for showing us that Chinese music can be snapped-to in four-glove harmony! Being the eldest and most experienced common-roomie, she is the one we turned to for sanity. Best wishes to you, with sincere thanks for sharing your year with us, on behalf of Grade 13, love from: Woolly-Man (alias Squid) Lorell, Fiona, and Janitor-in-a-drum.

ELISABETH PRESTON

"From this window I've seen the whole world pass. From dawn to dusk I've heard the last laugh laughed; I've seen enough tears to wash away the streets. I've heard wedding bells chime and a funeral march When, as one life finishes another one starts." Both the good moments and the bad: Waves splashing against old wood.

QUENTIN WOLUSCHUK

"What is real? . . . Does it happen all at once or bit by bit?" "It doesn't happen all at once", said the Skin Horse. "You become. It takes a long time. That's why it doesn't often happen to people who break easily, or have sharp edges, or who have to be carefully kept. Generally, by the time you are Real, most of your hair has been loved off, and your eyes drop out, and you get loose in the joints and very shabby. But these things don't matter at all, because once you are Real you can't be ugly, except to people who don't understand, and you can't become unreal again. It lasts for always." ". . . to see and hear and touch and feel as I have never before used these senses, to create something with my own hands without demanding perfection . . . to learn to respect my own creative encounters and to have faith that they will get me somewhere soon . . . the mystery of childhood's end."

Dear Keller,

This year was a great year for Kellerites. We finally won not only Spirit Day, but also the Intramural Sports! However, more important than the sports, the spirit and enthusiasm of our house was unprecedented, especially on Spirit Day and on Sports Day. Not only did we have great spirit, but we also exemplified our house motto, Fair Play!

. Keep up the great effort, Keller. Thank you for being a great house! Best wishes, and good luck Kirsten.

In the seven years that I have been a part of NIGHTINGALE, I have always felt that this house excels in SPIRIT, GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP and FAIR PLAY! These qualities make our house Number One!

I would like to thank Lis Preston (Senior Sports Captain), Katie Dick (Vice Head), Nicole Jaques and Melinda Hamlyn (Junior Sports Captains), and Camille Bouchard (Junior Head). Thanks to all the regulars - those who came unfailingly to every House Event. It really made a difference. To the team captains: thank you so much for the great job you did on both Spirit Day and Sports Day.

Best wishes to next year's House Head, Michèle Friend, and to Nightingale in the years to come!

Love, Paula.

This year Wilson excelled in spirit and sportsmanship. Our spirit was such that we not only won a pizza lunch, but also won Spirit Day and Sport's Day.

I want to thank Mr. Yates and Mrs. Faguy whose constant support was always felt and welcome. Thanks also goes to the loyal supporters whose voices and abilities were greatly appreciated. This year was altogether a tremendous success. I could not have done it without you, the housemembers and many of my grade 13's . . . Cynthia Hughes, Sara Thorpe, and Sue Leggett, many thanks!

Much luck next year to Louisa Taylor.

Love, Heather

Student's Council was comprised of students from grades five to grade thirteen, with a representative from each class. Our new library, where the meetings were held, proved to be a great inspiration to the ideas formulated by the Council, such as a tuck shop, a ski day, compulsory sports, ventilation for room 12, and locks on the bathroom doors. Some of the more memorable activities supported by Student's Council were the Junior Halloween Party, the Junior Picnic, Spirit Week, the Video Dance, Sport's Day, the House-Spirit Pizza-lunch. During the summer, we will be trying to purchase a flag pole for the school on behalf of the Student's Council. Thanks for your support!

The Elmwood Choir has increased both in size and prestige. Our numbers were so great that it was necessary to divide the choir for performing purposes. We gave an audience of parents and politicians an angelic repetition of carols at the Rotunda of the Parliament Buildings in December. We also performed at two of the Mulroney's Christmas parties. In January, we performed at the American Ambassador's Residence and were considered a great success by all. During the year, we gave performances at the Mackay United Church and others. At the Bicentennial Celebrations, a small group of us, accompanied by a guitar, sang folk songs under a tree. At closing, the choir sang "The Ash Grove", "Early One Morning" and "The Rose". All in all, it was a tremendously successful year. Thanks goes to Mrs. Staseson for playing the piano, and of course, Mrs. O'Brien, for her inspired direction and devotion.

JUNIOR DANCE

Grades 7 and 8 enjoyed four dances this year. They were held in the Elmwood gym and the adjoining atrium, and the Ashbury boys were invited to participate. The turnout to the four dances was amazingly good (it certainly beat the senior school turnouts) and were considered a success by all. The dances were efficiently organized by Fiona Adams, Nicola Cole, Helen Gilbertson, and Lisa Hillary. Many thanks to Mrs Chance, Mrs. O'Brien, and Mr. Sherwood. Good luck to next year's Committee!

The Formal was held at Hotel Plaza de la Chaudière in Hull. The hotel had a very glamorous dining room with crystal chandeliers, and we were served a four course meal, beginning with shrimp cocktail, followed by crepe soup, then a chicken dish accompanied by French beans, ending with Peach Melba. It was a clear and beautiful night, perfect for dancing inside and outside. Everyone was sparkingly attired, the girls in taffetas and silks, with cascading ruffles, the boys in elegant dinner jackets. Formals are really sumptuous affairs, and this one was particularly well-organized by the committee. Thank you Madame Sabourin, Sheila, Liz and Carolyn for a lovely evening!

DANCE COMMITTEE

The Elmwood Senior Dance Committee organized seven dances to liven up the academic year. Although the turnout was not always what one would have desired the committee had prepared everything so well, including decorating the gym and atrium, and thinking up imaginative themes for the dances (remember the Beach Bash?) that the sociable people who were there had a great time! Thank you so much Sarah and Committee for all your hard work!

The Elmwood Uterpes Poetry Club was formed so that those with an interest in poetry, or a dramatic flair (we read aloud) or creative genius, could share their tastes and opinions. This year we explored some Catullus, T.S. Eliot, A.A. Milne, Tennyson, Roland Leighton and others. We did not meet as regularly as we would have liked due to overloaded schedules. Let's hope next year the Club continue with renewed interest and enthusiasm.

Tryouts for the 1983 edition of the Reach for the Top team were held in early October and we were deluged with a mix of eager, eccentric and energetic étudiantes. We spent several weeks choosing the team, defining its strengths and eliminating its weaknesses. Ready or not we ventured forth on the last Thursday of October and the constant drilling during numerous lunch hours paid a handsome dividend as Elmwood emerged with a well-deserved 330-200 victory. We had two weeks to prepare for our next match against perennially powerful North Grenville and District High School. The large number of Elmwood's loud and lenient supporters set a positive tone for the critical contest. The aggressive attitude and rapid reaction of the North Grenville team to the quizmaster's questions shocked Elmwood into a state of suppressed animation. The final tally was disappointing but we had fun and we can beat anyone at Trivial Pursuit.

RECORDER CLUB

These capable students play everything from Renaissance music to folk tunes of today. They have performed this year at several functions, including the American Embassy party and "Fling 200". They also won five prizes at the Ottawa Music Festival for duets, trios, and quartets.

CHAPEL MONITORS

Sue and Anne, our faithful chapel monitors, were seen nearly every day hassling classes to "put up" chairs, chasing teachers in order to discover exactly which hymn was to be sung, and handing out hymnbooks and various bits of frayed sheets of paper. Interesting to note is the fact that twelfth grade were called to "do chairs" not more than once this entire year - a new school record of participation.

Thanks again, and good luck to next years monitors.

JUNIOR LIBRARY

The Junior Library found a new home this year, in the room that is fondly referred to as the "fishbowl". Walls were knocked down, and shelving replaced the blackboards.

Over the course of the year, many people have contributed to the library in a variety of ways. Special thanks must go to the Mother's Guild who have continued to give us financial support, and to the volunteers from grades seven and eight.

Mrs. Schmidt

SENIOR LIBRARY

Students and staff alike have enjoyed the spacious surroundings of the new Senior Library. Its large windows overlooking the Atrium ensure bright working conditions on even the dullest days. The extensive new shelving is now almost entirely full, our existing collection of books having been augmented during the year by new books purchased with the generous donation made by the Mother's Guild; the staff have welcomed in particular the opportunity to purchase library books on subjects recently added to the Senior School curriculum, such as Computer Studies, German, Economics, Music, and Philosophy. In addition, generous gifts of books have been made by individual parents, including a large number of National Geographic magazines, which extend our collection back to 1951 and have enabled a duplicate collection to be put in the Geography Room.

Library monitors from each of the Grade 9 and 10 forms have worked faithfully to tidy the library at the end of each day and keep it in smooth running order.

SUI SANG

Michèle Friend was in charge of Sui Sang this year and so she had occasion to explain to many new girls what the strange term means. Sui Sang was the name of Elmwood's first foster-child, and was subsequently used to name the committee that took care of raising $500, and replying to any correspondence concerning the foster-child. Michèle ran a "tuck shop" for two weeks to earn the necessary funds. Good luck to Sui Sang next year!

JUNIOR DRAMA

Middle Row: Hadeel Shaikh, Stephanie Cripton-Dryden, Kathleen Macauley, Samantha Ambridge, Patricia Harewood, Mai Vejjajiva, Genevieve Le Blanc, Samantha Mason, Molly Finlay. Back Row: Vanessa Riddle, Catherine Addison, Zoe Pettengel, Camay Coghlan, Lori Hillary, Patricia Reilly, Catherina Lewin, Heather Alyea, Albertine Van Aerssen.

The Junior Drama Group, under the direction of Mrs. Sheppard, put on a shortened version of OLIVER TWIST on the afternoon of May 15th. They presented with their love in honour of Mrs. Chance. It was performed in front of the parents and the Junior School. Mrs. Peat, as always, did the make-up superbly. Great help was given by Mrs. Wires and Miss Stratford throughout, and Susan Brewer, Sandra Delvoie and Philippa Sheppard gave much help on the day of the performance. It was a most enjoyable afternoon, and all the Junior actresses shone in their parts.

ELMWOOD THEATRE CO.

So many thoughts and emotions come to mind when one tries to write about the Elmwood Theatre Company, yet there is such small space in which to write. Reflections on both the wonderful and the frustrating moments linger forming lasting memories, memories which bind E.T.C. members together with a unique spirit of comraderie.

Through the years E.T.C. has expanded to take on increasingly more demanding scripts and production schemes. This year, the play "Find Me" was perhaps the most ambitious play Mrs. Scott, our illustrious director, has ever chosen. This elaborate production required little in the way of set or props. Instead it relied on the acting talent of eleven students who alternated roles, thus every actress developed an understanding of each individual character, lending an overall feeling of unity to the play. The subject of the play was an emotional and often disturbing one, based on the true story of Verity Taylor.

Of course, all of the love and admiration in the world to Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Peat, Mrs. O'Brien and the rest of the crew, without whom E.T.C. would not exist.

THE DRAMA FESTIVAL

E.T.C.

Spirits ran high the weekend of the festival. Finally, at 7:05, E.T.C. played to a full house, who had waited patiently to see "Find Me". Because of the high standards exhibited, the adjudicator had difficulties determining who he felt should win the prize in each category. After much deliberation, he awarded Best Play to Pickering College for a burlesque farce, and to Elmwood he gave the prize for Technical Merit, an award he felt we deserved for our overall excellence in acting, staging and presentation. The drama weekend was a tremendous success.

UNE ANNÉE MÉMORABLE

Dans le domaine des langues, les cours se sont vus propulsés dans des espaces quasi-sidéraux cette année!!! Oui! A partir du moment où nous assistâmes à la première canadienne de BONHEUR D'OCCASION (le chef d'oeuvre de Gabrielle Roy porté à l'écran par le cinéaste, Claude Fournier) au Centre National des Arts en octobre, en passant par les voyages --- un de ski à St. Donat dans les Laurentides, l'autre culturel dans la vieille capitale, tous les deux d'une durée de quatre jours --- jusqu'à notre présence au théâtre français du CNA pour la mise en scène de pièces aussi variées en thème que LES BELLES SOEURS de Michel Tremblay et de NICKE, production du Théâtre du Nouvel Ontario, le fait français se fait toujours sentir dans notre école.

Jouissant du fait que plusieurs de nos élèves sont bilingues et s'intéressent aux deux langues et cultures officielles du Canada, et du fait aussi que nous sommes dans le milieu rêvé pour profiter de ces manifestations culturelles, nous invitons nos élèves à aller voir les meilleurs films des capitales européennes. Qu'ils soient en allemand avec sous-titres français ne posent pas de problèmes. Au contraire, c'est drôlement plus fascinant et cosmopolite!!! Ainsi nous avons eu la chance de voir DIVA, un suspens nouvelle vague, et MARIA CHAP-DELAINE, histoire d'amour . . . à la canadienne. Et j'en laisse passer . . .

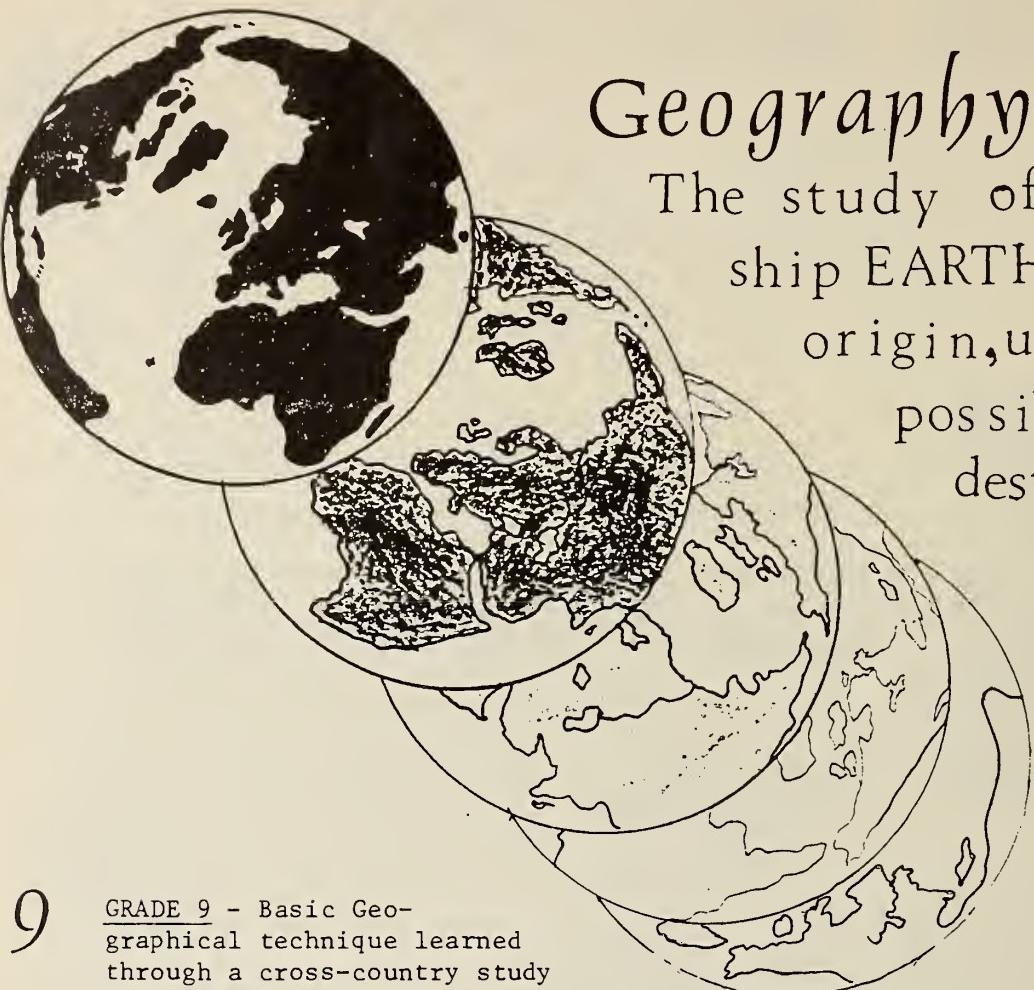

Nous espérons qu'avec l'avènement du lecteur de video-cassettes, nous pourrons nous permettre d'ajouter à nos activités para-scolaires en projetant régulièrement plusieurs autres films susceptibles de plaire à la gente étudiante. Cette année déjà, nous avons fait la projection répétée de l'oeuvre de Anna Mnouchkine et Molière. Toute une épopée!

Et nous pourrions continuer . . . Mais laissons ici . . . et permettons de nous retrouver en septembre avec de nouveaux projets à ajouter aux "bons vieux de la vieille".

Biology

The Biology programme in the Senior School has been enjoying the facilities of the new laboratory and expanding its horizons into the newly available space.

Biology 3A appreciated the beautiful autumn weather as the class participated in the longitudinal study of a maple sugar bush. Data was gathered on both abiotic and biotic factors and litter collected for further analysis and study in the lab. Biology 5A made the trip, on a sunny Saturday morning, to the campus of the University of Ottawa. In the Biology building we examined the exhibits, manned by both students and professors, of the laboratory work carried out by the University of Ottawa undergraduate students. On a wintry November afternoon Biology 5A travelled to the Careers Exhibit hosted by the Civic Hospital. This event provided the students with the opportunity to talk and learn about the sophisticated testing used by hospitals such as electrophoresis and how to identify unknown bacteria - extensions of much of the theory and techniques learned in class.

During Winter term, Biology 5A had the opportunity to visit the Carleton University campus. A wintry Saturday morning was spent learning from projects prepared by undergraduate and graduate students, admiring the bats, observing the scanning electron microscope in operation and studying the plant physiology demonstrations. Plans included finishing the winter term with a display of the experimental portion of a year-long project planned and carried out by every biology student - until the "flu" invasion intervened.

So - we started the Spring term by filling the atrium with displays of experimental results and demonstrations of experimental procedures, materials and equipment. Later this Spring term, the students who have been preparing themselves for IB Biology will be writing both Higher and Subsidiary papers.

HOLIDAY

I crouch on a tide-thrown log,
Lost from it's boom somewhere
Out there on Lake Superior,
Watching my brothers
Watching the waves
Crescent over the
Pre-Cambrian Shield

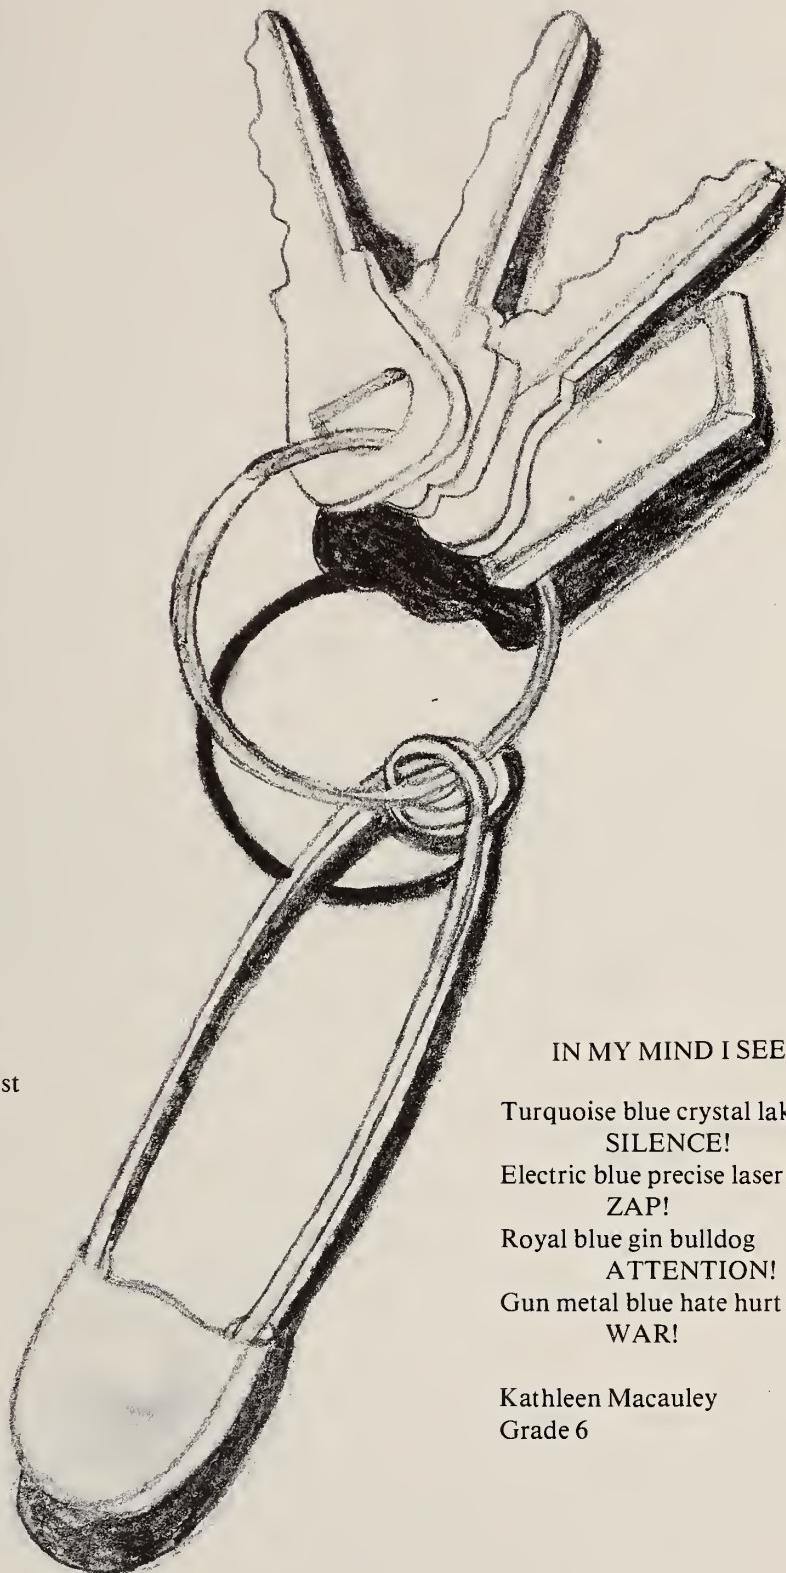

The one, sixteen,
Furled like a picture poet,
Torn jeans, hair curling
Over his faded cotton shirt,
Painting words with a black pen
On a white loose-leaf page
As the light tumbles
Before him.

The other, younger,
Wild-daisy hair, tanned
Feet planted in pink sand
Listening to the laps that whisper
Coded songs for recording later.

Eyes and ears are gifts to my brothers
I observe my gift; loneliness,
Watching my brothers being poets,
As I improvise with a
Charred stick on granite sand,
Sitting on a lone log
Absent from its brothers
Feeling
Sad.

AN EXCERPT FROM A SPY STORY:

Mandy sat back on the sofa, kicked off her shoes, and rested her feet on the coffee table. The reporters on the television were tearing about giving "exclusive up-to-date reports" in high-pitched voices, thick with tension. Mandy lit up a cigarette, and concentrated on blowing perfect smoke rings. She was actually surprised at how calm and at ease she felt. She had waited for this moment for literally years. As insane as he was, he was nevertheless brilliant, and, more importantly, determined. Hauffer was in control. She knew it, and she also knew that everyone else in the world had better realize it . . . very soon. He was in there right now, with up to a hundred expertly trained men. This was no hotch-potch operation. Hauffer's mission had penetrated the inner-most circles of the Super Power's governments. Let the ridiculous bureaucrats bail out now that the ball was in motion. Hauffer had counted on having most of them out of the way. From now on only their people were needed -- would be tolerated.

Flying free is the falcon.
Not hunted, but hunting.
Swooping down upon an unsuspecting rodent,
One swallow and it is gone.

He is the majestic bird perched in the old pine.
Regarding the world with an air of superiority.
His powerful talons clutching a gnarled branch.

The wind brings an unknown signal to him.
One flap of his wings and he is gone,
Gracefully soaring high with the wind.
He flies into the distance until
I can see him no longer.

LA LIBERTÉ

La liberté t'a appelé,
Sans regarder tu as couru,
Sans regarder tu m'as laissée,
C'est en elle que tu as cru.

La liberté t'avait - on dit
“Tu pourras voler aux plus hauts nuages”
Cela on te l'avait promis.
Mais la suite discrètement omise.

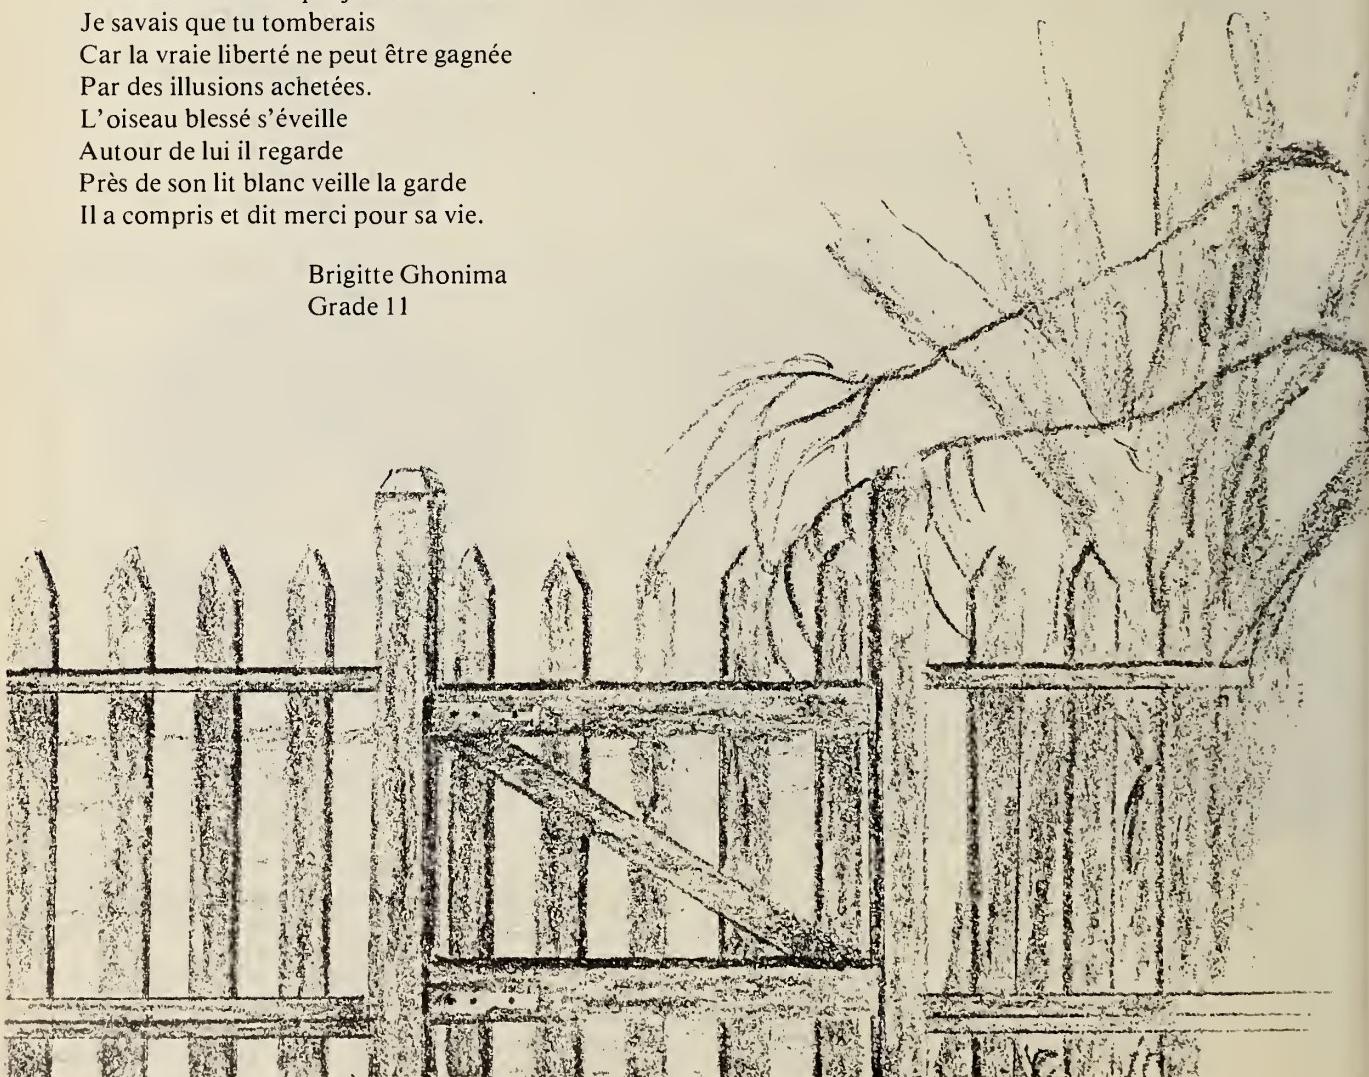

L'oiseau s'envola les yeux fermés.
Vers le ciel il est monté,
Toujours plus haut il montait
Toujours plus loin il volait.
Là, très très haut dans le ciel
Ses poumons n'en purent plus
L'aventure était “fautue”
Sa descente fut très rapide
Vers la mers clair et limpide.

C'est à ce moment que je suis arrivée
Je savais que tu tomberais
Car la vraie liberté ne peut être gagnée
Par des illusions achetées.
L'oiseau blessé s'éveille
Autour de lui il regarde
Près de son lit blanc veille la garde
Il a compris et dit merci pour sa vie.

Answer: Time

TIME

My mind is blank,
It awaits a word of confidence,
Yet all words have been spoken too late.
Syllables with no set patterns.
They, are the emotionless noises.
Take one to speak and befriend it with one of its kind.
Molecules are formed this way,
As is my past.
Although my room is bare,
It is not empty.
Cup the hand around the ear.
Echoes are free?
No.
They take a lifetime to pay,
All was worth the while.
Live on.

Kellianne Folk-Parish
Grade 11

There are times
When a passionate love
Fills my whole
And leaves me trembling.
What it is I never know.

It makes me grab
My sunny-haired
Little brother
And embrace him,
So hard he runs away

Then I run
Swift as a storm
To the twilight park.
I stand very still
And listen to
The call of white birds
That rings high
And clear
Over the grassy pond.
But I tremble still.

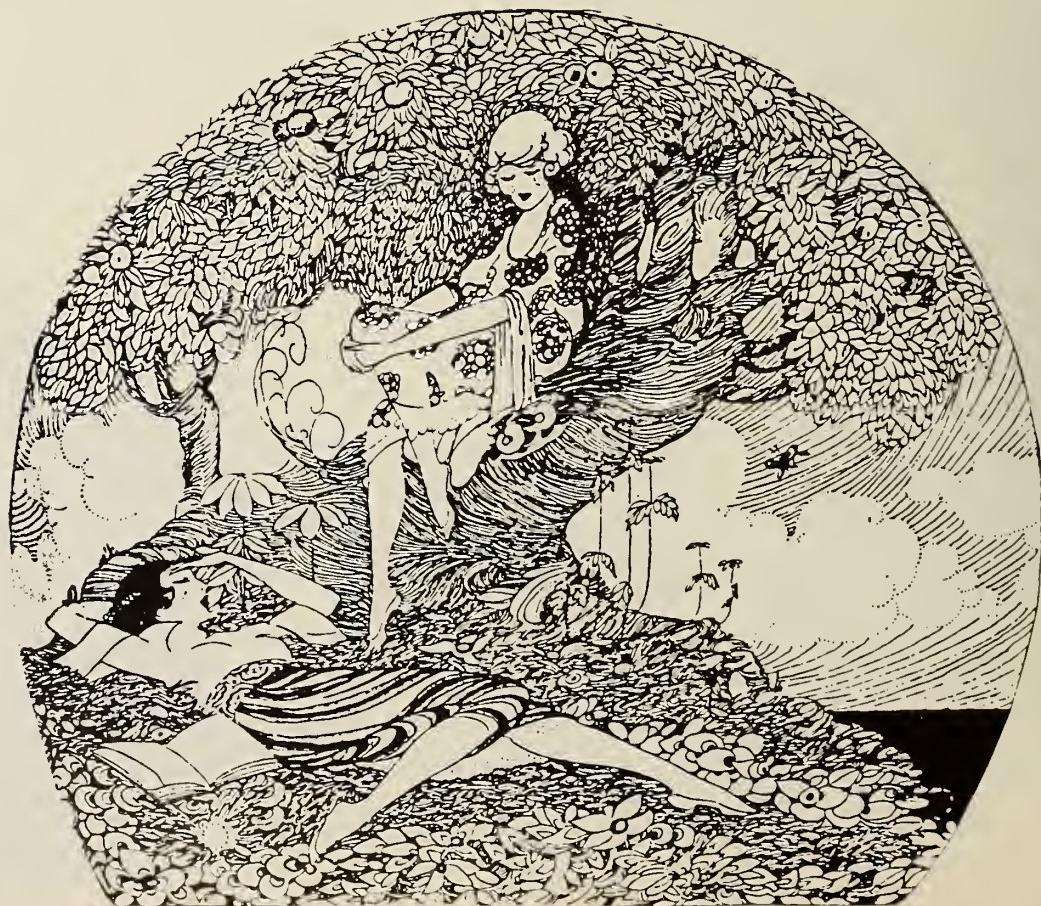

I am on the swing
Swift and high
My sandy toes

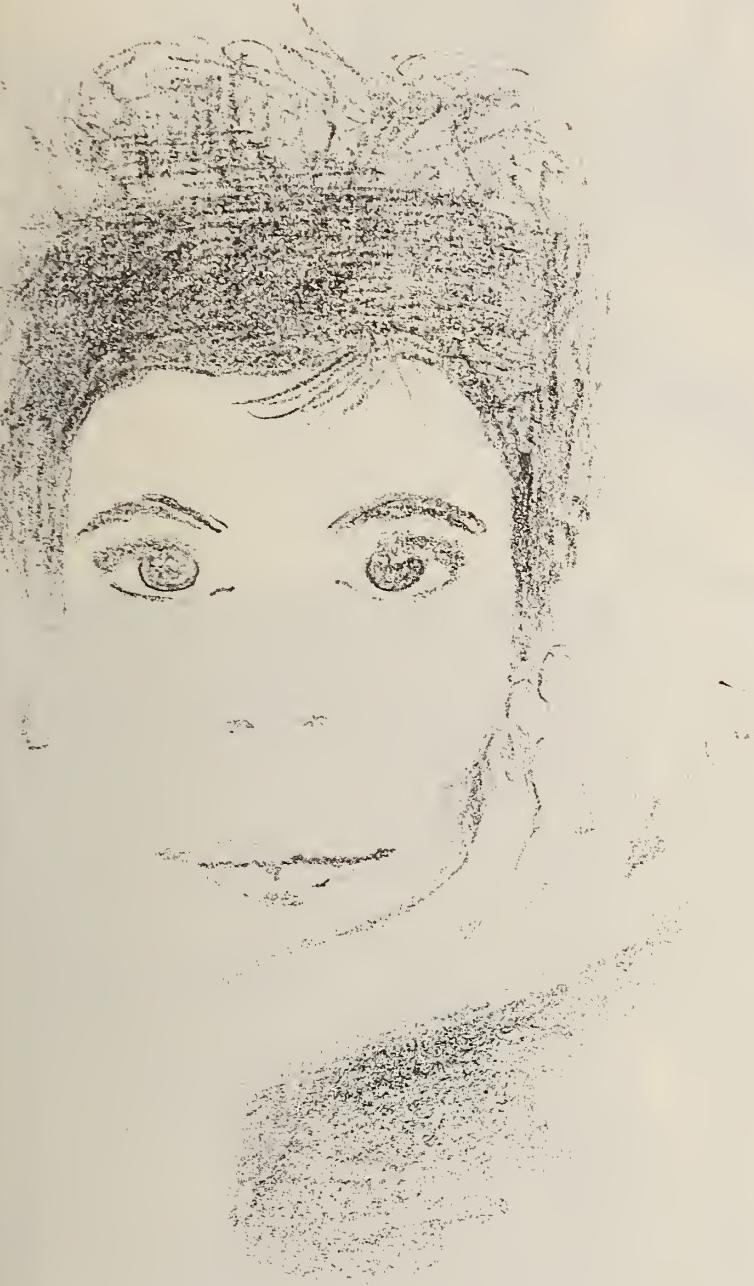

Touch the wind
I swing harder
Faster
Passionately swinging
Till I'm weak.
Off the swing,
I tremble still.

I'm full of sun
Electric and soft
Burning and tender
Yearning . . .

There are times
When the voices
Are glorious
And the sky is true
And a passionate love
Fills my whole.

MY BEAUTIFUL CHILD

Come to me my beautiful child
You are the light of the world
Close your eyes
And imagine
That love is real
He loves you so life is bearable
Don't fear the end
For with faith it will never come
And love nor life will ever end
Smile
And let me wipe away your tears
My beautiful child
Don't cry
It makes you look so naive
You are not naive
Just pure
And innocent
My beautiful child
Don't grow up
Stay by my side
And hold my hand
Be my friend forever
Maybe you should cry
It would show you will always be

SONG OF THE SEA

Where mermaids play and all fish glide,
The sea, the sea my home and pride,
Oh the starfish and the coral white,
Flourescent plants that glow at night,
The multi colored aquean plants,
Sway to and fro in rhythmic dance,
Where soft waters join talcum sand,
Come gently to caress the land,
I'll gaze out on these waters still;
I feel my heart with wonder fill,
This sunset tells the day to close,
My lids grow heavy and I doze.

THE STORM

The wind
Shrieks past the houses
And down the street.
It stops suddenly,
Without warning.
Stillness.
A bright flash of lightning
Darts across the darkening sky
Illuminating a tense, still world.
Silence.
A clap of thunder
Splits through the stillness
With a loud, long roar
And stops.
Tension.
Rain begins to fall.

DANCE

The brilliant colours of the dancer swish and swirl in a blur. Her feet barely touch the ground. With swift movements she flies through the air. Swirling with great facility. Falling with the silent sound of snow.

She flutters like birds in your window. She isn't anything else but herself. The outstanding, extra-ordinary dancer belongs to her fascinating world of dance. As she swishes and swirls in a blur.

THEM

Above me hangs the cross of Jesus wearing thorns;
Below me burns the devil with sharp translucent horns.
A drop of Jesus' blood would help to save from all,
And yet I call on Lucifer to help me build a wall.
They're fighting o're my body: one to save my soul,
The other to destroy me, that would be his goal.
And though it's good and evil versus me; oh silent me,
Repentance would be sin to claim my useless destiny.

ON THE WAY TO EARTH

It seemed like hours, even eons, the last fifteen minutes of the red alert. Twenty light years away, the most lethal missile ever built, Annihilator Supreme, was hurtling toward the planet Earth, from the Orion System over fifteen-hundred light years away in space.

The year was 2259 A.D. Already, three missiles had rocked Earth's surface. The first had reduced Oceania to atoms; the second and third had destroyed the two magnetic poles. Now, the fourth was bearing down, directly on course from the heavens to further reduce the whole planet, such as it was.

Most of the planet had been transformed into wasteland. Huge upheavals had changed the Earth's soils and atmosphere so that nothing could live except in the few Bubble Cities - ten, to be precise.

In the Central Control Bubble City of NASA, no one but the Space-Workers knew of the impending disaster. One of these, a telepath named I-c'nc-'all was a brilliant man confined to a wheelchair, but everyone knew that this disability did not mean that his mental processes were reduced.

Now he was sitting idly, feeling that he had done everything within his power, and reflecting in depth on what would happen when the missile struck. The radiation would heat the Earth to the point where lead would turn to vapour and . . . NO! He mustn't think of that! It was much too horrible and, unfortunately, too true.

He sensed a tingling in the back of his skull, but he tried to dismiss it from his thoughts. As it gradually grew, to seemingly fill his whole mind and body, he felt a curious lightness and freedom that seemed to lift him from his wheelchair. Suddenly, his earthbound form writhed in pain and shock. He cried out in agony against the instantaneous launching of his telepathic mind deep into space.

All work in the room ceased. All eyes were riveted on the small figure seated by the Central Com-Tracking 'Puter. I-c'nc-'all was now telepathically grappling with the missile deep in space as it continued its sinister flight through the vacuum.

The missile was now slowly, being diverted from its final devastating encounter. I-c'nc-'all was transferring all his strength and willpower to save his planet and possibly the Milky Way. His initial contact had forced him to scream in sheer mental agony, but now he was in complete control.

Eventually the missile was far enough off course to avoid any contact with the Milky Way. I-c'nc-'all returned to himself, emotionally battered and bruised. Someone took his gaze from the crippe long enough to note that the missile was no longer in radar scan range.

It was then that the medics arrived with the life-support cradle. As they bundled him into the cradle, a last waking thought clamoured weakly for his attention. No one else realized that even though the missile had been deflected, it was now circling Earth in an erratic, fragile orbit.

No one could ever calculate, for certain, if some freak mishap would send the missile crashing down to the surface.

A PICNIC TO REMEMBER

Harold and Mildred decided to go
On a picnic one day in July.

The weather was fine, the temperature warm
And no clouds appeared in the sky.

Well, Mildred suggested that they take their picnic
To a little place down by the sea.

With their ham and their salad, their tarts and their cakes
And a little brown pot full of tea,

They spread out their blanket, set up their umbrella
To keep the sun from their eyes.

But one thing they did not happen to see
Was the sea which had started to rise.

Just then they noticed the rising sea
Which was covering up most of the sand.

So they flipped up the umbrella, tied on the blanket
And sailed to a far-away land.

At an island they set up their picnic again
And poured out two cups of tea.

And made a toast to the wonderful voyage
They had crossing the gleaming blue sea.

So Harold and Mildred had a memorable picnic
At a little place down by the sea.

With their ham and their salad, their tarts and their cakes
And a little brown pot full of tea.

WHO WOULD THE BEST MARKS SEE

Who would the best marks see, let her come closer:
To Elmwood girls like me, in kilts and loafers
She'll find discouragement and many times relent,
At last she'll vow intent, to be a student.

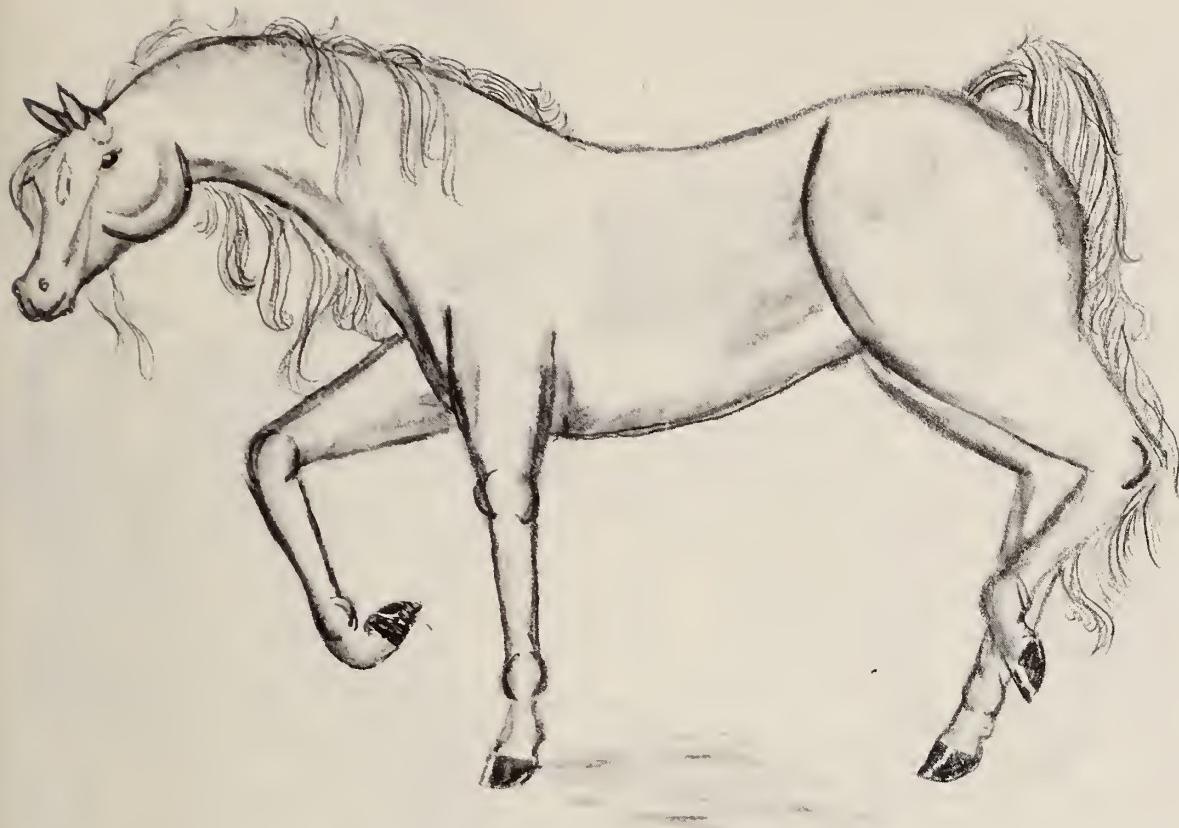

Teachers beset her round
With odd assignments
Do weekend plans confound
This is her lament.
So passing is in sight
She'll labour long at night,
To finish homework's plight
To be a student.

Since Lord, thou dost defend
She who will study
She knows that in the end
With IB's for buddies;
Then she may fly away,
Ne'er to return I pray
But to visit one day
No more a student.

SOMETIMES I NEED A QUIET PLACE

Sometimes I need a quiet place
Away from life with its fast pace,
Sometimes I need to be alone;
To think and dream in a place of my own.

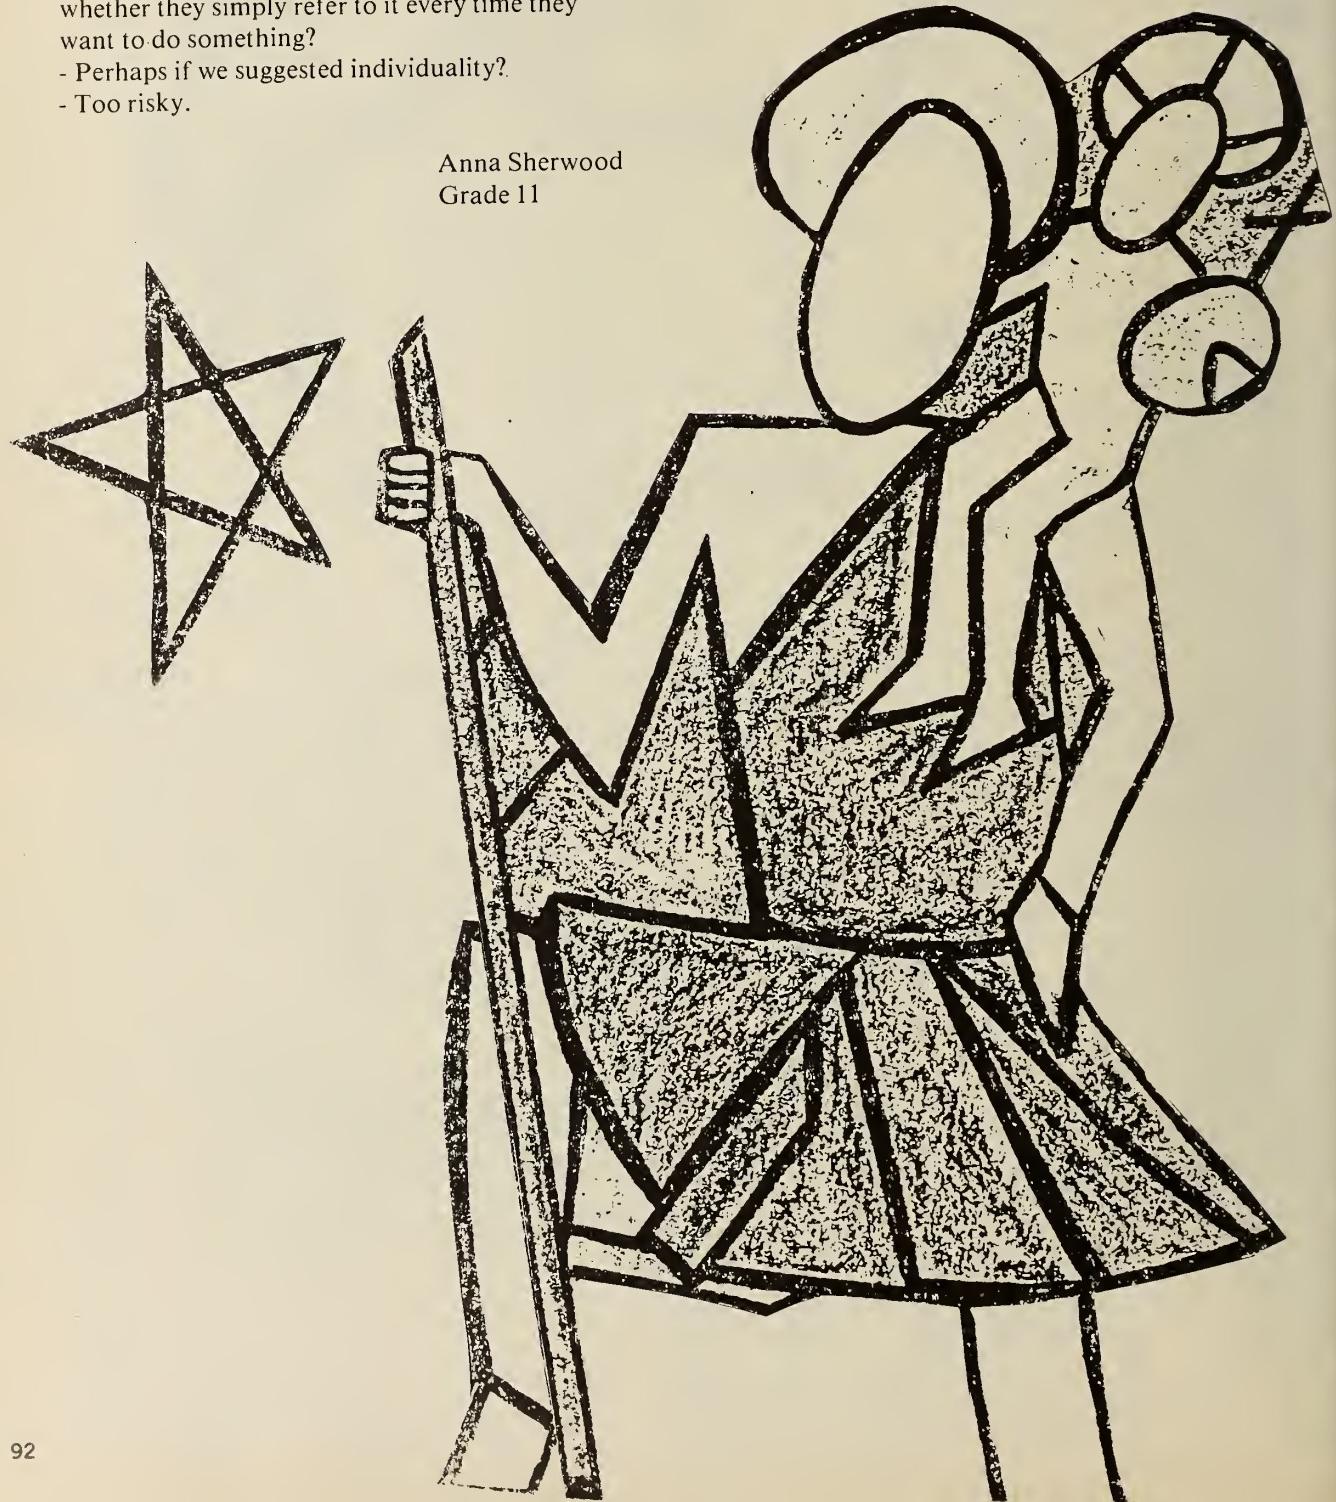

It's there that I talk with my dolls and play
Read books sometimes on a rainy day,
Write to myself and sometimes pray,
Till my good friends come to call me away

ON TRENDS AND FADS (... SOCIAL CLOTHING)

- I really don't think shooting the alligator will get rid of them. They tend to swarm, don't they?
- Travel in group(ies) -- or hover.
- Sometimes it's rather difficult to tell them apart, they all insist on seas of green and pink, (a kind of uniform).
- Do you think half a head of hair is meant to protest something or just stand out? (or up). Do you think that they sleep with their combat boots on or off?
- I wonder if they've memorized their handbook, or whether they simply refer to it every time they want to do something?
- Perhaps if we suggested individuality?
- Too risky.

CINDERELMWOOD

Once upon a time in the land of Rockcliffe there lived a wicked headmistress and her ten beautiful prefects and Cinderelmwood.

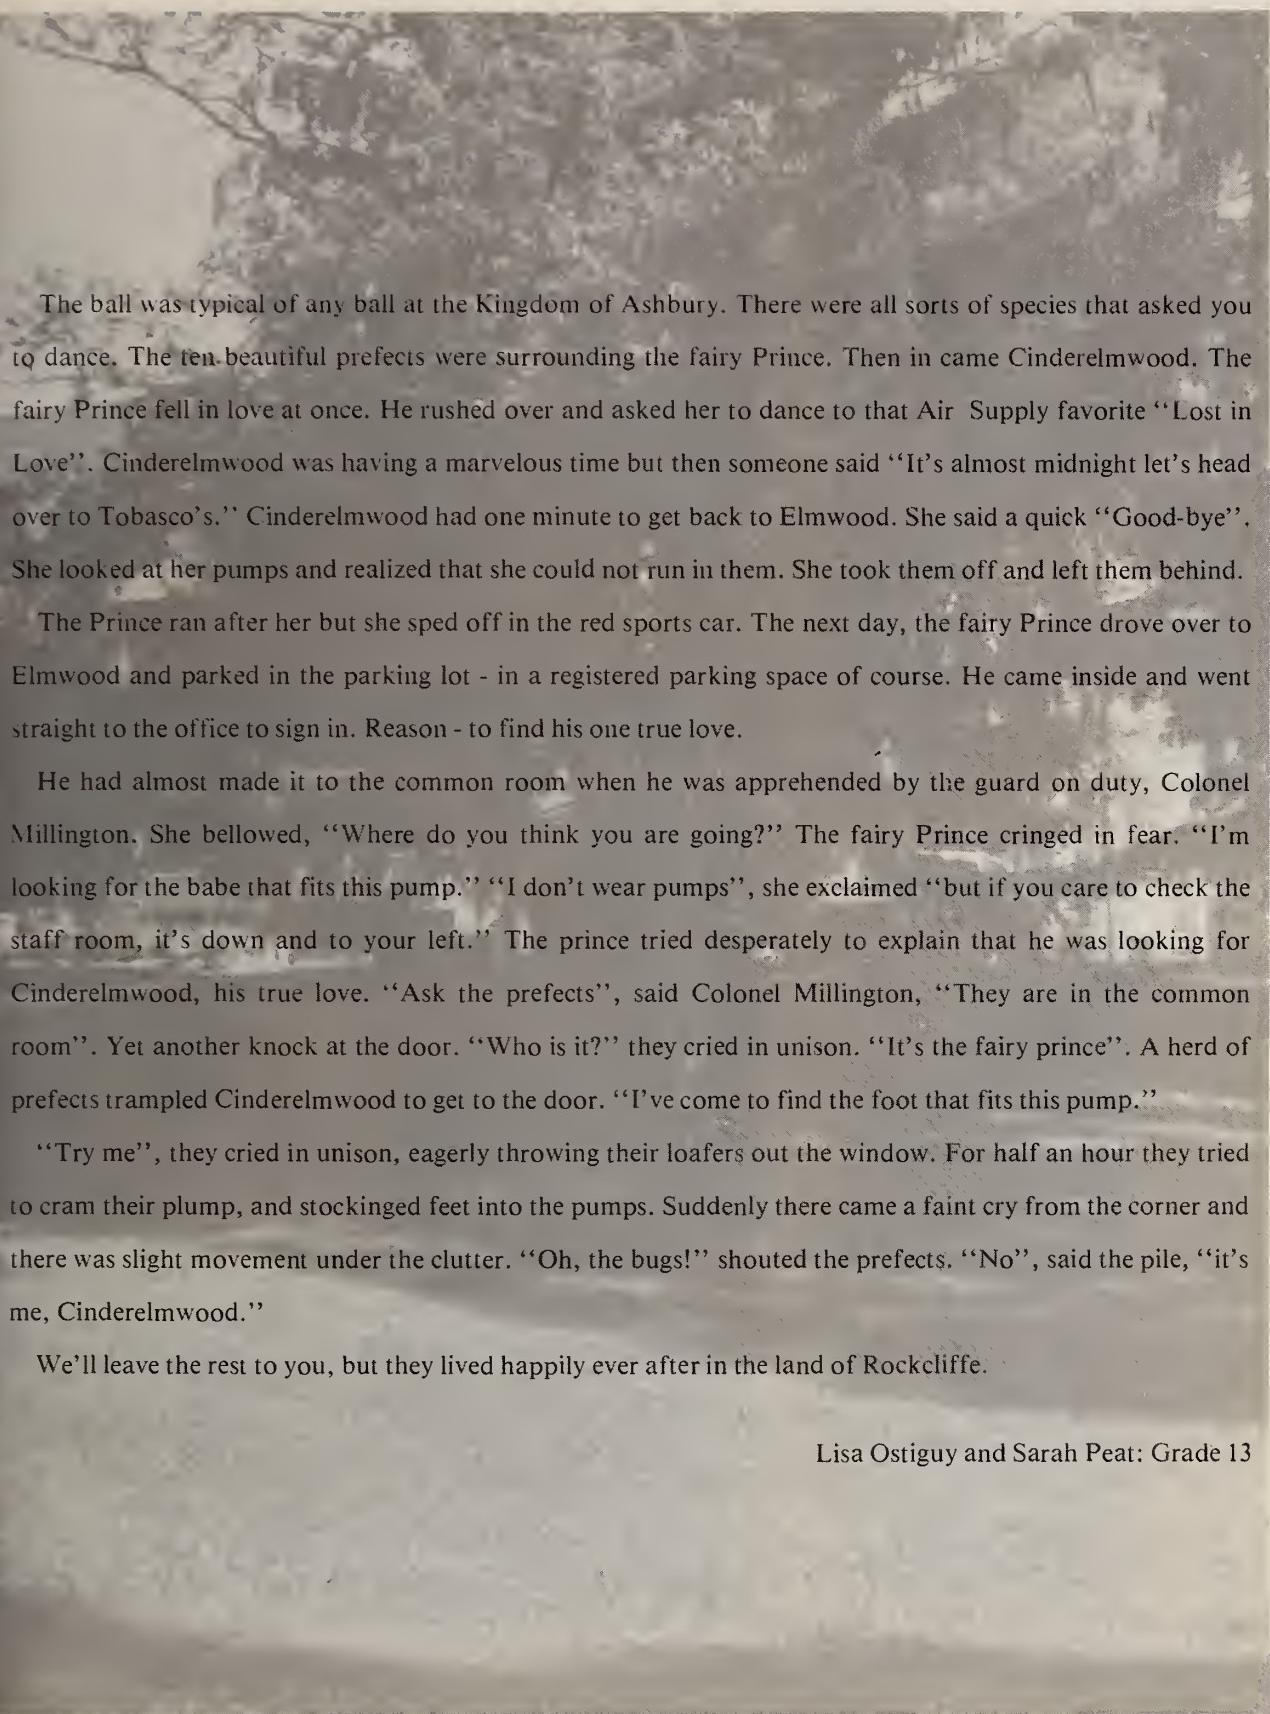

One day in prayers it was announced that there would be a ball at the fairy kingdom of Ashbury. It was rumoured that the fairy king was to pick his queen at the ball.

The days passed slowly as the prefects waited anxiously for the ball. Then the day finally arrived. The prefects wore their sparkling white rayon sweaters. They put on their favourite leotards and had polished their penny loafers. They wore their hair in green barettes and ribbons.

There was a knock on the door. The prefects didn't hear it because they were listening to the music of the common room ghetto blaster.

Then there was a second knock which disrupted their listening pleasure. It was Cinderelmwood. "What do you want," cackled the prefects. "I came to use the mirror to fix my make-up for the ball." The prefects were at once silent. They looked at each other. Then the prefects told Cinderelmwood that she could not go to the ball at the Kingdom of Ashbury. "Oh please you can't do this to me, now I'll never meet my fairy prince," cried Cinderelmwood. "Well" said the prefects "if you clean the common room you can go to the ball." Cinderelmwood looked around in despair. "I'll never get this clean" cried Cinderelmwood. "Get the bugs to help you," replied the heartless prefects.

She began to work on it right away. Hours passed and she was still cleaning. But then there was a knock on the door, and in came her fairy Gundymother. "Why are you not at the ball?" she exclaimed. "The prefects told me I couldn't go until I cleaned the common room." "Well, I think you have done enough you are free to go," said the fairy Gundymother. Cinderelmwood was ecstatic but then she realized that she had lost her penny loafers in the mess of the common room. The fairy Gundymother turned a pair of sneakers into a pair of shiny black leather pumps for Cinderelmwood. "How will I get to the Kingdom of Ashbury? I'll break my neck walking in these pumps." The fairy Gundymother then turned four juniors on detention into four radial all-season tires and a cup of tomato soup into a red TR7. "Thanks," cried Cinderelmwood. "You must return the sports car by midnight, don't forget by midnight, or you'll have to drink the soup."

The ball was typical of any ball at the Kingdom of Ashbury. There were all sorts of species that asked you to dance. The ten-beautiful prefects were surrounding the fairy Prince. Then in came Cinderelmwood. The fairy Prince fell in love at once. He rushed over and asked her to dance to that Air Supply favorite "Lost in Love". Cinderelmwood was having a marvelous time but then someone said "It's almost midnight let's head over to Tobasco's." Cinderelmwood had one minute to get back to Elmwood. She said a quick "Good-bye". She looked at her pumps and realized that she could not run in them. She took them off and left them behind.

The Prince ran after her but she sped off in the red sports car. The next day, the fairy Prince drove over to Elmwood and parked in the parking lot - in a registered parking space of course. He came inside and went straight to the office to sign in. Reason - to find his one true love.

He had almost made it to the common room when he was apprehended by the guard on duty, Colonel Millington. She bellowed, "Where do you think you are going?" The fairy Prince cringed in fear. "I'm looking for the babe that fits this pump." "I don't wear pumps", she exclaimed "but if you care to check the staff room, it's down and to your left." The prince tried desperately to explain that he was looking for Cinderelmwood, his true love. "Ask the prefects", said Colonel Millington, "They are in the common room". Yet another knock at the door. "Who is it?" they cried in unison. "It's the fairy prince". A herd of prefects trampled Cinderelmwood to get to the door. "I've come to find the foot that fits this pump."

"Try me", they cried in unison, eagerly throwing their loafers out the window. For half an hour they tried to cram their plump, and stocking feet into the pumps. Suddenly there came a faint cry from the corner and there was slight movement under the clutter. "Oh, the bugs!" shouted the prefects. "No", said the pile, "it's me, Cinderelmwood."

We'll leave the rest to you, but they lived happily ever after in the land of Rockcliffe.

With the advent of 1984, there has been a resurgence of interest in George Orwell and his prophecy about the world. In TIME magazine, in QUEST, on the radio and T.V. - everyone is wondering about Orwell's famous novel. 1984 has not seen cameras in every corner, and a dictator whose all-seeing eyes are forever upon us. What would it be like? Would our immediate world, Elmwood, change drastically? Would Big Sister place telescreens in every classroom, would every word be recorded, listened to, every gesture reviewed by the Ministries?

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF MISS ELMWOOD

Miss Elmwood starts her day battling the enemy of the morning, her alarm clock. Fast asleep, after a long night of homework, the clamouring knell explodes into her ear and she rises only long enough to hurl the offending hunk of machinery to the ground. After ten, stolen moments of extra sleep she is prodded awake by Mother with some cheerful cliché like "Rise and Shine" or "Up and at 'em Sunshine." Then she knows her fate is sealed and she must get up. Miss Elmwood throws on her kilt, (somewhat rumpled by its night on the floor), blouse, tie, tights and bloomers (to hold up the tights, you must understand), and then spends an hour doing her hair. She gulps down a cup of coffee, destroys a Mars bar and off she goes . . .

The bus ride constitutes a major part of Miss Elmwood's social life. There she can chat with her friends from "down the road" and catch up on the latest news. The socializing peaks at the Pinto where she picks up a TAB and a bag of HOSTESS. The journey up Springfield mountain is arduous for Miss Elmwood as she must drag her Adidas bag full of books, binders and other "useful" artifacts all the way up to 261 in all kinds of weather. At last she arrives in the warm refuge of the front hall and joins the lengthy line to sign the late book. On to prayers and a few minutes of natter. The old brass bell signals the "all quiet," as the Headmistress, black cloak billowing out behind her (Darth Vader), passes the silent regiments of green girls, closely followed by our Miss Elmwood who has just found out she's "doing prayers". Miss Elmwood is desperately thinking of all manner of facetious things she can say about just discovering that she was to do prayers. She survives, barely.

On to first class where Miss Elmwood enthusiastically answers every question, so much so that the teacher can't get in a word edgewise. Surprising what one can do on the spur of the moment, isn't it? Her second class is a spare (oh joy, oh bliss) which is spent discussing the "wild" party she went to Saturday night and the problems she's having with the latest boyfriend. All the while the teacher on duty threatens Miss Elmwood with detentions and the studious girls add their murderous looks; Miss Elmwood is oblivious to all. Now it is break. Miss Elmwood bounds joyously into her classroom, takes out the TAB (without which the morning would not be complete), her Sony Walkman (playing Marvin Gaye) and her Munchies that help feed the mice that lurk around the school waiting for such opportunities. Lunch is much the same as break, spent in the classroom so as to avoid cleaning the tables. After further strenuous afternoon activities Miss Elmwood collapses on the desk in her last class. She is revived, just in time, for her rendezvous at the park.

SPORTS

SPORT'S CAPTAIN'S NOTE

This past year has witnessed many achievements in sports. These achievements were partly due to the tremendous support, hard work and enthusiasm of both students and staff in all our sporting activities.

Again, we had a basketball team, a soccer team, as well as a senior and a junior volleyball team. And, as usual, all these teams showed excellent spirit and encouraging progress. Wait until next year!

This year Elmwood was able to have its first softball and rowing teams. The interest shown in joining each of these two teams exceeded by far that shown in joining any of the previously existing teams.

As usual, the track and field team high-lighted Elmwood's sports scene (no bias evident here, I hope!). Both Cynthia Hughes and Elise Braithwaite advanced to the Ottawa Valley meet, where Cynthia placed sixth in the shot put and Elise placed first in both the 400m and 800m races. Elise then advanced to the Eastern Regional meet and later to the Ontario Federation of School Athletic Association meet in Toronto. Elise took first place in the 800m with a time of 2:05:94. This time broke the existing OFSSA senior age class record (2:09:73) AND the Canadian Interscholastic record (2:09:27).

Sports Day was a tremendous success. Many thanks to Mr. Yates, the staff and students who helped to make this year's activities a day we'll all remember.

Many thanks and much appreciation also goes out to Miss Eaman, Mr. McCabe, Mrs. Neale and Mr. Yates for their assistance with the various teams.

Finally, thanks to the house sports captains, whose support and help made my job as sports captain all that much easier. And, a very special thanks to Mrs. Neale for whose guidance I am greatly indebted. Without her, success in organizing house games and Spirit Day would have been impossible.

During October and November the Elmwood Cross-Country team participated in two meets - a preliminary competition and then on to the city finals. The runners included: Sarah Molson, Gillian Lorimer, Sheila Reid, Paula Gilbert, Elise Braithwaite, Matilde Hahn, Fiona Doestch, Susan Westley, Elisa Campbell, and Nicole Jackson. From the city finals Elise Braithwaite advanced to the regional meet, where she placed third. Elise then moved on to the provincial meet where she came twelfth. An exceptional season due to the consistent, hard work of everyone involved. Their dilligence paid off when they had to face the steep hills, mud, snow and extreme cold!

By MIKE HAYES
Staff Writer

Some run for fun. Others run on doctor's orders. Then there are those blessed with the ability and inner-drive who run to win. Elise Braithwaite is one young woman who epitomizes the latter.

Braithwaite, 17, has just returned from the Ontario Federation of Secondary School Athletics (OFFSA) track and field championships in Etobicoke where she shattered all existing records for the 800-metre run.

Although she was eligible to run as a junior, Braithwaite ran in the senior division to encounter stiffer competition.

"In junior, she was winning races by half-a-lap and more," said Brenda Neale, Braithwaite's phys-ed teacher and coach at the Elmwood School For Girls.

"We hoped that by running against seniors, Elise might be pushed just a little."

Pushed she was, and when Braithwaite flashed across the finish line, her winning time of 2:05.94 was almost four seconds faster than both the Ontario and Canadian interscholastic records.

The win and records capped a fantastic year of running for the affable Braithwaite.

She had previously set meet records in both the 400-and 800-metre events at the Ottawa, Ottawa Valley and Eastern Ontario championships before advancing to the provincial finals.

Several weeks prior to the finals, Braithwaite decided to drop the 400-metres and concentrate on the 800. Both her and Neale agreed the 800-metre was her strongest event. The rest, as they say, is history.

Now that the school year is over, Braithwaite is training with the Ottawa Kinsmen Harriers, a track club she has been a member of for two years.

Her next big meet is the junior national championship in Edmonton in July. A good showing there would give Braithwaite the opportunity to compete for Canada at the Pan-American Junior Games in Nassau, Bahamas, in August.

And if she continues to run and run well, Braithwaite will be a candidate for a spot on the 1988 Canadian Olympic team competing in Seoul, Korea.

"The Olympics would be wonderful," said Braithwaite.

"But that's really a long way off. My biggest concern now is the nationals and the Pan-Am Games and then my continuing education."

Braithwaite has just graduated from Elmwood where she was a member of the student council and an intramural sports captain. She plans to attend university in the fall and major in phys-ed with a minor in business administration.

Braithwaite has been offered a full scholarship to attend the University of Nebraska, but she is leaning towards either Ottawa, Toronto or Western universities.

"But it's a long way from home and I think I'd miss my family too much."

Whatever she decides to do, Braithwaite will likely do it well. Her positive outlook extends beyond the track to everything she does and her enthusiasm is infectious when she says, "I love running and meeting people and life in general."

CHARIOT OF FIRE

BRAITHWAITE SETS CANADIAN MARK IN 800M

Ottawa's Elmwood School also set a Canadian interscholastic record, shaving over three seconds off Camille Cato's 800-metre mark of 2:09.27 in winning the senior girls' 800 metres in 2:05.94.

At 17, Braithwaite is young enough to run as a junior but decided to enter the senior division, "because I thought I'd stand a better chance of breaking the record," and she's only been running the 800 metres for two years.

Braithwaite's coach, Bill Arnold of Ottawa Kinsmen, felt she was ready to break a record.

"We were going for 2:08 today, 2:05.94 is fantastic," he said.

If Braithwaite equals her time in the upcoming Pan-American Junior Games in August, she should be a medal threat.

This year the Bad New Bears didn't go into "breaking Training" nor did they go to China. In fact, this year they came to Elmwood in the form of our softball team. I'm not saying that the team was bad, actually, we were pretty good. If it were not for that TELEPHONE CALL, we would have been able to show all the teams in Toronto how good we were. We would like to thank both Mr. and Mrs. Neale (none of this would have happened had we not had those Saturday morning practises) and the juniors who cheered and supported our team against the "E.T.'S". Don't ever forget (not that anybody will) the dune buggy, "Peter and Paul", the water bed, and the NEVER-ENDING CHILI!

Thank you Mrs. Neale, next year looks very promising!

This year was good for the soccer team. We started out with an excellent game against Rideau High School, which we won! Unfortunately, this was only an exhibition game. Later that season, we had a few ties and some losses, however, the team has never played so well. Our skill has improved steadily, along with our spirit, determination, and aggression (which has been rather lacking in the past) Unfortunately, we will be losing many of our "star players", who are going off to University. We will miss them greatly. Thanks to Mrs. Neale, and the graduates, namely, Rosemary Todd, Cynthia Hughes, Paula Gilbert, Christine Kelly, Elisabeth Preston, Ann Rogers, Sheila Reid, Heather Rogers, and a big thank you to Lisa Ostiguy for her constant support.

This year, Elmwood discovered that among it's midst were some rather talented oarsmen. We soon were out on the river, trying not to tip, endeavoring to keep in time with "stroke" and straining to hear the coxswain's plaintive shouts of encouragement. Of course, participation waned in the winter as Miss Fonda's workouts seemed less exciting than being on the river. Enthusiasm, of course, was revived as spring approached. Many thanks go to Miss Eaman, for her undying support and devotion.

Good luck next year, DON'T CATCH ANY CRABS.

TENNIS

The tennis season was somewhat hectic this year, to say the least, we played six games, and were aware that our skills, under the nurturing care of Mrs. Knap, had greatly improved. All of us: Elisa Campbell, Jennifer Cohen, Diane Drouin, Paula Gilbert, Cynthia Hughes, Marion Jones, Nicola Maule, Fiona Murray, Satsuki Okada and Tatjana Wodrich thank Mrs. Knap!

Although we did not win any games this season, the "Elmwood Eagles" soared to great heights, and, in doing so, scored more points overall than ever before. Under the strong leadership of Mr. Yates, we practiced, when it did not rain, on the basketball/tennis courts, and met our formidable opponents with spirit and determination. Best of luck for next years team and always remember: "It's not whether you win or lose . . ."

CLOSING

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS:

Mr. Chairman, Members of the Board, Mrs. White, Members of Staff and Students. I feel sad tonight because this is my farewell after five years. However, a quote for my purposes -

"Better to have loved and lost
Than never to have loved at all"

It is only when I confront the idea of leaving the Elmwood atmosphere that certain realizations come to me. Everybody knows each other's name and in the mornings I would receive, at least, five "Good Mornings" and four "Grunts" and between classes there would be a friendly exchange of jokes and pats on the shoulder from students and teachers alike.

I accepted the honour of being Head Girl so that I could repay the friendship and support I have received through the years. Ironically, the more that I tried to repay, the more and more the friendship was returned to me. Throughout the year the Prefects and I have worked in trying to bring new ideas to please the student body and they have more than thanked us for our efforts by simply saying, "I had a great time."

The students of Elmwood are a great bunch, full of enthusiasm. They have taught me two valuable lessons - that defeat must never be allowed to push anyone from the scene; that those with strong beliefs never fail. Elmwood students and staff have certainly proved this by improving academic endeavours and athletic competition beyond all measure. I know that the day Elmwood gets a gym, the school will become 'Number One', and I have pretty good luck at forecasting performance.

To the Grads of '84, well I thought I would sing to you . . . but I still want your friendship so I will just have to say it. When I was younger, all I wanted out of Grade Thirteen was to graduate with a spirited class who participated and cared for their school. You - Grads '84 - have more than fulfilled that wish. I am honoured and proud to be graduating with a class such as ours. I wish you all the very best of luck in everything that you do - most of all, I wish you much happiness. Each of you has so much to offer. I hope you all get a chance to show it.

To Bissy McClenahan, next year's Head Girl, our congratulations and we wish you the best of luck.

It is too bad that the two words, THANK YOU, are used so much that they lose the true value of their intention. But these are the two words I feel sum up everything best, to all of you who have made my years at Elmwood happy and positive, a very sincere THANK YOU.

THANK YOU ELMWOOD AND GOOD-BYE.

EDITOR'S MESSAGE

It is surprising what affection an editor has for the last bundle of copy sheets, layout forms, photographs and envelopes that is sent to the publishers; it approaches the maternal. One has seen the editor's kit in its embryo stage, piles of untouched and frighteningly new graphs and forms, slowly and painfully changed into a mature yearbook.

Painfully is not an exaggeration. The Committee-members and I will remember all the difficult obstacles we had to overcome. At the beginning, we gazed at the bizarre collection of papers in the editor's kit in puzzled horror. (Thank you Karen, for making us acquainted with its contents, and for always "getting on with the job") Later on, in trying to raise money, we were forced to ask people things they did not want to be asked; "Please give us your (1) money, (2) time, (3) effort. (Special thanks go to Lis for her work to find advertisers and patrons)

Asking people these unpleasant questions isn't easy. It involves numerous phone-calls, leaving message after message, and eventually, seeing them in person. Many afternoons after school were spent going from shop to shop to ask for advertising, often to no avail.

Samara meetings became part of our lives. In a little room in the Junior School, we would meet on the weekend to wrestle with the infernal cropping tool and rummage through the editor's kit (known as the Box) to refer to the almighty ladder diagram.

Then there were the summer days; one or two of us would sit in the Elmwood dining room, 3-R planners and photographs strewn about the tables. An empty school is an eerie place but well-suited to dreaming up Bergman-style Art and Literature pages.

Yet despite the fact that "doing Samara" was time-consuming, nerve-racking, and lots of hard work, we did not regret taking it on . . . at least, I know I didn't. I learned more in being editor of Samara than I have ever learned before in a single exploit. If I had to do it again . . . yes, if I had to do it again, I would!

Very grateful thanks to the Committee, and above all, Mr. McCabe, for giving us so much of his time, effort, and guidance.

Good luck to next year's editor and Committee --- make the most of it!

Philippa Sheppard

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

There are so many involved in the production of the yearbook that it would take a whole yearbook to name them all. To finance our yearbook (we had to raise $6000) we held a magazine campaign, and solicited for advertisers and patrons. We achieved our goal and raised all the money needed for this expensive venture. So, many thanks to staff, parents, Mother's Guild, patrons, advertisers, and of course, the student body for supporting Samara.

Special thanks goes to Mr. Yates, Mark Whitwill, Susan Evans, Sheila Connolly, Susan Leggett, and Mathilde Hahn for taking photographs; after all, it's the faces that make the yearbook. Thanks to last year's Committee for their reassurance, and thanks to Pui Jayanama for designing the division pages. Very grateful thanks to Milena Sigmund who generously devoted two weeks of her summer to Samara. Thanks to Quentin Woloschuk for her inspiration.

Many thanks Mrs. Woloschuk, Ruth Martin, Pilar Rodero and Susan Brewer for the endless typing you did. Thank you Mrs. Sigmund, Mrs. Ritchie, Mrs. Buda and Mrs. Carter, for depositing Samara money in the bank, taking messages and looking for envelopes. Thanks to Mrs. Gundy and Mrs. White for useful advice and organizing tips. The Committee would especially like to thank Mr. McCabe for his devoted help, support and counsel.

Thank you Elmwood for supporting your yearbook with such spirit!

The Samara Committee.

SINGING, SINGING ANOTHER SONG

Here we are together, singing another song,
And once again I'm at a loss for words.
Oh, isn't it fine when we are together,
Just singing, singing another song.

I've always wondered why friends always seem to part,
Time and touch become so distant,
And we miss each other for so very long,
But when we meet again we are singing, singing another song.

The friendship that we share is so very strong
That distance doesn't really matter at all.
Sure we grow and sure we know that there will be days
When we won't be together just singing, singing another song.

But now I think I know why friends must part,
I do believe He does have a plan afterall.
It's so that we can share this special time together,
Just singing, singing another song.

So when you feel like all your friends have left you,
And gone to far away lands, just remember that a friendship
Like ours will never die, and when we meet again we'll be
Singing, singing another song.

So when you feel like all your friends have left you,
And gone to far away lands, just remember that a friendship
Like ours lives on and on, and no matter where we are,
There'll someday be a time like this when we are together again,
Just singing, singing, singing another song.
